Description

Antique mahogany twin pillar dining table This Antique mahogany twin pillar dining table was made in the 19th century using timber from a larger Georgian dining table that had become redundant or too large for a later owner. The table with 2 D-ends and a further 2 leaves to extend the table. The leaves are supported by a pair of supports that are stored under the table and then slide on runners as the table is pulled open. A pair of mahogany turned gun barrel columns with the quadruple legs support the table. Each leg is fitted with the wonderful cast brass toes with the castors under. The table can be used with no leaves or using just one or both extra leaves. It makes for a very versatile dining table to suit the sitting you require as you entertain your family and friends. As this table does not have a leg to each corner you can entertain more people around it. Imagine how good this will look in your dining area. 279cms long 110ins when both leaves set in place 112cms deep 44ins 74cms high 29ins 181cms closed with no leaves set in place 71 1/2ins 60cms wide one leaf 24ins 37ins 2nd leaf 14 1/2ins All measurements are approximate This Leather revolving desk chair is a...
