Description

A small 18th century Netherlands naval oil painting on millboard, set in a later 19th century frame. The painting itself is very well painted and depicts a ship and crew and a small life boat with a sinking ship adjacent to it. The painting is on millboard which has had a secondary backing applied at some stage for support. The later frame has some minor damage and cracks to the gesso but the overall condition of the painting is excellent. Measurements of the painting out of the frame: Height 18cm x Width 24cm
