Description

A good quality Art Deco desk in walnut dating from circa 1930. With a breakfront top, it features a central drawer flanked by pedestals with three graduated drawers. In beautifully figured walnut veneers with carved handles and standing on ogee bracket feet. This piece would have originally begun life as a dressing table. The kneehole aperture is quite small (see dimensions), but big enough for a small chair to fit under. Construction/Wood: Walnut / Walnut veneer Condition Report: Good condition, with lovely colour and patina to the walnut. A few small chips to the veneer on the drawer fronts. Begun life as a dressing table, discolouration to the top at the back where a gallery top would have been. Other wear and marks commensurate with age. Dimensions: Max Width: 120cm Max Depth: 46cm Height to Top at Sides: 71cm Height to Top at Front: 66cm Kneehole Aperture Width: 58cm High: 55cm
