Description

Victorian inlaid walnut coffee table This Victorian inlaid walnut coffee table was made circa 1870. Originally a loo table ('Loo' was a Victorian parlour game) this table has been adapted in its lifetime to make a superb and stunning coffee table. A real conversation piece as the golden colour together with the inlays makes this such a standout piece for your home. The oval shaped top with its lovely burr walnut veneers with the inlaid patterns to the four corners joined by box wood stringing. It stands on the original quadruple carved walnut legs. There were no coffee tables in the 19th century and so people looked for items that could be used for this use as coffee tables became an important part of the modern home. This style of table was perfect for such a use. Imagine how stunning this will look in your home and the many admiring glances it will get from your family and friends. 120cms long 47ins 87cms wide 34 1/2ins 49cms high 19 1/4ins All measurements are approximate This Victorian inlaid walnut coffee table is a finite piece of antique furniture that is a very green product which has not affected the environment we live in.
