Description

A 19th Century mahogany armchair with bobbin turned legs, arms and back dating from the reign of William IV. This attractive chair is very comfortable having a deep seat and good height to the back. The condition is good, the joints are sound and it sits evenly and firmly. There is some fading to the padded armrests and the buyer may wish to recover these and the seat and back cushions. A very good period armchair that will sit well in a traditional or modern interior. c.1835 Height: 37" (94cm) Width: 25.5" (65cm) Depth of seat: 21" (54cm) Height of seat: 15.75" (40cm)
