Description

Country Homes Antiques Scotland est 1985 Extremely rare Thomas Stubbs London Clockmaker (Queen Ann Period). Approx date circa 1690. Clock in a very handsome 19th-century marquetry case A superb and extremely rare 17th-18th-century marquetry longcase clock. Queen Ann period. The square brass dial with silvered chapter ring with Roman and Arabic numerals inscribed, Thomas Stubbs, London, with subsidiary seconds dial and date aperture. The ring turned winding holes and 8-day movement. The hood with giltwood turned finials, the dial framed by four inlaid mahogany columns with gilt metal Corinthian capitals. The trunk door with brass mounted conical glass, above a square base with short bracket feet. the dial 29.5 cm square, MORE DETAILED IMAGES UPON REQUEST Appendix: Thomas Stubbs is recorded as 'A Great Clockmaker' when he was made a Freeman of the Clockmakers' Company in April 1685. Very little of his work appears to have survived despite the fact that he is recorded as dying in 1738. I Might add that this clock is superior to the one sold at Christies last. Size; height 266 cm. ----- Other Thomas Stubbs records A Charles II walnut longcase LOT138A Ch...
