Description

William IV mahogany bergere chair This William IV mahogany bergere chair was made circa 1820. Originally used as library chairs these have always been very popular in the home as reading chairs. They are classic and very classy. This example has the most desirable tulip front legs, that are the signature design of the William IV period. We have totally renewed the upholstery using our craftsmen and then recovered in high grade English hide leather. The leather has been hand coloured once this has been done the many different processes of bringing it to our own special antique finish is then achieved by our specialist. Each brass headed stud is tapped in, this takes tremendous patience and skill. 98cms high 38 1/4ins 64cms deep 25ins 59cms widest 23ins 45cms seat height 17 3/4ins All measurements are approximate This William IV mahogany bergere chair is a finite piece of antique furniture that is a very green product which has not affected the environment we live in. Delivery We can arrange delivery nationwide £75+vat; we also have a very reliable and good delivery service for single or multiple items to Ireland.
