Description

Early C19th Regency period mahogany 'break-front' library bookcase. Elegant Regency period mahogany library bookcase of restrained design and compact proportions fitted with original decorative brass diamond-lattice brass grille doors. The uprights or stiles with panelled reserves of figured 'fiddle-back' mahogany. The raised top centre-section flanked by lower-height wing sections of breakfront outline. The top sections each with a simple moulded cornice and corresponding waist mould, the whole raised on a plinth base. All doors fitted with original brass knob pulls, brass interior door bolts and locks, supplied with original key. The centre section fitted with reeded gilt-brass dividers or 'slamming strips' to the upper and lower pairs of doors. Fitted with all original removable shelves, each with a moulded front edge. The reverse constructed with original chamfered edge 'fielded' panel backboards. In good original condition with a consistent rich colour and patination. Minor losses to brass 'buttons' of the brass grilles. Built in the traditional manner comprising 4 sections for ease of movement and transportation. H 82" W 85" D (ends) 9" D (ce...
