Description

This fine large German late 19th-century amber glass goblet is made from clear glass which is overlaid in amber. The finely decorated bowl is skillfully cut and engraved through to the clear with an inscription on one side and a cherub drinking wine from a goblet on the other, these are surrounded by a grapevine design with fine detail to the leaves and fruit. The stem and foot are of a stepped conical design with no other decoration. German, Circa 1880 in good condition with no damage.
