Description

This rare survivor is beautifully made to a simple design with a steel knife and a three-prong fork with brass ferrules and polished mahogany handles held in place with small brass rivets. The knife and fork are each offset in their handles which leaves room for a cavity and when put together each one slides into the other. A simple but clever design making them safe for packing and transport. There is a maker's stamp on the knife, J.U. James and Sons Sheffield, England. Circa 1840 Combined length 21cm. Individual length 19cm height 2cm Depth 1.5cm £195
