Description

This rare Mauclinaireware round string holder is beautifully turned from maple wood. The two semi-circular halves snugly fit together to form a sphere in which a ball of string would be placed, the loose end passing through the hole in the top. This item would have been used as a desk accessory. It is printed in black with a view of the Victorian Pier at Hastings. It is in superb condition and even retains its original string handle. C 1860
