Description

Victorian mahogany desk chair This Victorian mahogany desk chair was made circa 1875 in one of the best London workshops. This stunning chair has been totally restored and reupholstered by our experienced and specialist team. The solid mahogany frame has fine carving along the top rail as well as the arms. The chair stands on well-turned mahogany front legs with splay legs to the rear. The back, seat, and armrests are upholstered in fine grade leather that has been hand dyed and then finished with our antique finish, you would think the leather has been on the chair all its life. This is a very skilled job, with each of the hundreds of brass capped studs having to be tapped in individually, not only requiring patience but a lot of skill as well. Imagine how good this Victorian mahogany desk chair will look in your study or office, attracting many admiring glances and positive comments. 100cms high 39 1/2ins 58.5cms wide 23ins 58.5cms deep 23ins 52cms seat depth 20 1/2ins 51cms seat height 20ins All dimensions are approximate. This Victorian mahogany desk chair is an item of antique furniture that is a very green product that has not affected the environment we live in. De...
