Description

A lovely antique armchair with exposed mahogany frame on cabriole front legs and castors. It is good quality with a classic shape and nice small proportions. The scroll end arms are delicately carved and there are carved flowers at the top of the frame. The upholstery is not new but is excellent quality and there are three small buttons on the back adding detail and shape. The upholstery is generally clean and tidy with no major marks or wear and suits the chair nicely. The chair is in good overall condition. It runs well on its castors and is a good sturdy chair. There are some general marks and small knocks around the legs but nothing detrimental. The frame is generally solid and in good condition. There has been a repair on one back leg and one castor has been changed but it is strong and sturdy and displays beautifully.
