Description

This is an antique conversation sofa. A English, fruitwood loveseat, tête-à-tête or courting bench, dating to the early Victorian period, circa 1840. Sinuous, lustrous and perfect for the loquacious. Displays a desirable aged patina. Serpentine fruitwood shows fine grain interest and radiates rich colour. Benefits from a quality reupholster - fabric in good order. An elegant, sinuous top s-rail divides and unites in equal measure. S-rail at once delicate and well fortified. Carved backrest with heart-shape cutouts evokes romance. Delicately tapering arms capped with fluted scroll carvings. Well-padded cushion with traditional stuffing. Rich cream fabric with foliate pattern and golden brocade trim. Scrolled, squat cabriole legs with proud knees. Riding upon a set of four, original bronze and ceramic castors. This is a splendid antique conversation sofa. Elegant, evocative and desirable, this loveseat is sure to enhance any room. Solid joints and construction, delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
