Description

Antique Colonial merchant's chest This Antique Colonial merchant's chest was first crafted in the first half of the 19thc. using an Indian hardwood. This chest was originally made for a European, to be used as a secure chest for transporting valuables, on the arduous journeys around India. These chests make superb coffee tables as well as conversation pieces. Your imagination gets sparked, as you envisage the stories this could tell of its perilous travels either by cart, wagon, elephant, or sailing ship. The top is multi boarded joined by blacksmith made iron protection straps. It has a small burn mark to the top that by repute, came after a skirmish on one of its journeys. The $\frac{3}{4}$ lids opens on a hinge to reveal a vast open storage area. The exterior has the blacksmith made iron corners and long strap hinges. The lock plate has a pair of decorated iron hasps. This lovely trunk is finished all the way around and so can be used away from the wall. These are especially good as interesting coffee tables. 120cms wide 47 $\frac{1}{4}$ ins 72.5cms deep 28 $\frac{1}{2}$ ins 52.5cms high 20 $\frac{3}{4}$ ins All dimensions are approximate.
