Description

This fine quality elegant and decorative Doulton Lambeth Vase has the Slaters Patent mark and dates to circa 1895. The neck and shoulders have been decorated in a complicated procedure where the pottery is incised with a scale like pattern which has then been hand painted with enameled flowers and finished with a heavy smooth glaze. The lower body is not glazed but it has a similar incised pattern over which there is beautifully hand painted exotic flowers in turquoise and white with their edges highlighted in gold. Circa 1895
