Description

What a wonderful find to discover one of these highly sought-after blue Jasperware salad bowls complete with the servers. The sides have various figural scenes around and a wonderful continuous floral garland hanging from a series of Ram's heads. The salad servers have the applied foliate design which coordinates with the foliate applications around the rim of the bowl below the silver plated mounted rim. The silver plated servers are both marked on the underside for the silversmiths, Atkin Brothers of Sheffield. The bowl has the impressed Wedgwood mark together with the impressed Made In England mark making this an early twentieth or Edwardian example. Miraculously, both the bowl and servers remain without damage. Excellent condition, the bowl measuring 9" in diameter x 4 1/4" tall and the servers measuring 10 1/2" in length.
