Description

A lovely farmhouse dining table dating from the mid 19th Century with a superb inch-thick top. It stands on simple square tapering legs with a planked top and a drawer at either end of the table. Originally a country house prep table, the legs have been tipped to ensure the table is a good height for dining with ample leg clearance of 24 1/2" (62cm) around the sides and 23 1/2" (60cm) at the drawer ends. It is a good size and comfortably seats 4-6 adults. It is in good condition for its age and is strong and sturdy. It has been cleaned and has a smooth waxed finish with a pleasant warm colour. The top has lots of signs of age and use, old marks and stains and cut marks where it has been used for prepping food which has created a wonderful aged patina.
