Description

An incredible find: a well-used travelling trunk with original old distressed polychrome paintwork. This eye catching metal box, complete with lifting handles to each end and a main handle so it can be carried like a suitcase, retains a wonderful lived-in look with a battered yellow, red, off-white, and sky-blue paint finish. It has a hasp and staple to enable it to be locked with any standard padlock, and it dates from around 1900/1920. Perfect for general purpose storage with an abundance of charm and character.
