Description

A golden opportunity to buy a wonderful pair of 1930's Art Deco Wall lights. Originally these would have been fitted in British buses and trams so what better way to preserve a little bit of history than to give these lights a new lease of life inside the home. Oblong in shape with a chrome casing which holds a stepped opaque glass shade which has a raised diamond pattern to the center. The thick opaque glass has a slight opalescent quality to it which looks gorgeous both lit and unlit. The back of the lights have a brass casing which has a convex shape and so you would need to make a 6cm recess in the wall to allow the lights to sit flush. These lights would be absolutely perfect for bathrooms, home cinemas, hallways, office. Both are in super condition with no damage and only minor signs of age. We have four of these lights in total, this listing is for two.
