Description

This stunning cushion framed mirror was made by hand in around 1700. It is in excellent original condition with wonderful marquetry and has an early 18th century mirror plate which is probably original. The plate is beautiful with very little foxing, glittery speckling and with the soft grey hue so attractive in hand made plate but very bright for age, useable and very fine glass indeed. Rebates to the back which would once have housed the cresting but as with the vast majority of mirrors of this age the cresting is long since lost. This is a fabulous mirror, large for the period - the beautiful marquetry all hand cut and surviving in exceptional condition. Some old worm, very little, and a small fillet added to the back where the cresting once ran. The plate is hand made and is either the original or an 18th century replacement/ A really stunning late 16th early 17th century mirror. Additional photographs will be available shortly. Viewings welcomed by arrangement. Frame is 27.5 inches high and 25 inches wide Plate is 16 inches high and 15 inches wide
