Description

A good example of a solid sterling silver hot water pot for tea making. It is a simple stylish shape with a curved handle and turned finial. It is engraved on the side with a family crest. It is good quality, weighing a total of 367g with the handle. It is clearly hallmarked for Harrison Brothers & Howson, London, 1911. It is in very good condition for its age. There are no major damages and it displays well. There are some faint surface scratches, a few light surface marks, minor dinks and signs of age and use but nothing detrimental. It has been gently cleaned and polished is ready for use. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions please ask. Tracked UK delivery £10, rest of the world £25.
