Description

This large lantern has brass to the top which has chains and a hook above, allowing it to be electrified with the cable going through a hole in the centre. The brass cap to the upper and lower section is bevelled. As you can see in the pictures there are brass finishing pieces in the centre of the light which are a teardrop shape. Some of them have been replaced with a round piece of brass. I only noticed this once it was cleaned, this clear in the photographs. The glass to the periphery is blue patterned in the mid sections and clear glass to the top and bottom. It is finished with a brass cap to the bottom. C1920-C1940
