Description

Well proportioned and sophisticated child's yew wood Windsor chair, circa 1830. Probably of North country manufacture. Extra busy turned legs and arm supports, the legs turned with ball ends. Well finished roll end arms, attractive pierced splat. The crinoline stretcher a sign of a quality Windsor. Yew wood, with elm seat, ash back legs and stretchers, fruitwood long back sticks. Good and tight with pegged and wedged joints. In very good sound condition with no issues, noting small split to the edge of the seat and split repair to the lower splat. The back leg stretches have taken the favour of a dog leaving some tooth marks. Height at the back 26,3/4" or 68 cm, height of seat 11 3/8" or 29cm, width of seat 15" or 38 cm. Attractive colour with original surface throughout.
