Description

Well we hope the pictures go some way to show what a magnificent Art Deco Grandfather clock this is. Extremely hard to source with such great styling. The craftsmanship to the case is spectacular, veneered in a mid tone walnut with beautiful detailing accentuating the shape, no expense spared when made. The dial has wonderful stylised raised chrome Art Deco numerals on a brass back plate. The whole case is very nicely portioned with square trunk and hood with rounded shoulders. The glazed door with bevelled glass to the front which displays the 3 chrome weights and pendulum. This clock has an eight day movement, worked by pulling chains rather than a key and the Westminster chime can be made silent by a small lever on the dial if so desired. Fully working and professionally restored both movement and casing comes in excellent condition, we're sure the new owners will have many years of enjoyment from this wonderful time piece.
