Description

This stunning panel was once the end panel of a large storage-bag or cargo-bag woven by Shahsevan nomads in the Moghan region of Azerbaijan during the second half of the nineteenth century. Sadly, the whole bag must have been badly damaged through hard use and taken apart at some point in the past. Nevertheless, this end panel is an easier thing to display and shows the fabulous weaving done by this tribe in the nineteenth century using vegetable dyes. Size: 1.10m x 0.60m (3' 7" x 2' 0").
