An ornate little early Victorian pocket watch-style locket pendant in nine-carat gold, glassed on one side. The glassed side of the locket holds a modern reproduction of a Victorian print, the other side has an original photograph. The central section can be gently pushed out of a piece to insert your own picture behind the glass should you wish. The top section can swivel up and down and is a slightly rosier gold than the main body of the pendant. Overall in very good antique condition, there is a slight dent in the rim of the photo frame on one side, see photos. Marked 9CT. Size: 3.8 x 2.7cm (just over an inch wide). Weight: 4.4g.
