Description

Victorian leather library desk chair This Victorian leather library desk chair was made circa 1870. The chair is upholstered in fine buttoned leather that has been hand dyed by our leather specialist to give the impression it was the original. The seat is sprung and so this makes it extremely comfortable, especially if you need to sit on it for long periods. Standing on well-turned front legs that finish on brass castors and with flowing shaped arms with hand grips and padded arm rests this chair not only looks important you will feel so as you work or read as you sit on this superb chair. 66cms wide 26ins 99cms high 39ins 76cms deep 30ins 50cms seat height 19 1/2ins 50cms seat depth 19 1/2ins All measurements are approximate This Victorian leather library desk chair is an item of antique furniture that is a very green product that has not affected the environment we live in.
