Description

This most impressive pair of large French candlesticks are cast in bronze in the form of two classical figures Pan and one of the female muses. They are both carrying a wicker basket which is filled with fruit and from the centre, the candle holders and sconces are fitted. These finely sculpted pieces are French and date to the late 19th century. Both figures are raised and mounted on to classical fluted columns. The quality, detail and scale of this pair are most impressive. They are both in good condition and the silver plating shows only slight wear. They have age related patination and some light tarnishing which gives them a good country house look and they would certainly compliment a gracious large scale interior. Circa 1880
