Description

A handsome antique Georgian mahogany chair dating from circa 1800. In a Hepplewhite influenced design, with wonderful colour and patina; the arms have taken on a particularly attractive patina through many years of use. It has a serpentine top rail above an attractive fan-shaped back splat and features carved out swept arms. It stands on chamfered legs united by H-cross stretcher and the drop-in seat has been newly recovered in a good quality fabric. Would make wonderful bedroom or desk chair. The chair is slightly lower than standard at 44cm high to the top of the seat pad. Construction/Wood: Mahogany Condition Report: Good colour and patina. Solid and sturdy with wear and marks commensurate with age. Newly recovered in good quality fabric over existing horsehair upholstery which is sound. The chair is slightly lower than standard at 44cm high to the top of the seat pad. Dimensions: Height: 96cm Max Width at Arms: 59cm Max Width at Seat Rail: 57cm Max Depth: 52cm Height to Seat: 44cm Height to Arms: 67cm
