Description

Victorian inlaid walnut loo table This Victorian inlaid walnut loo table was made circa 1870 in one of the best workshops of the day. The cabinetmaker would have taken his time selecting the highly figured burr walnut for the top. Once this was selected, he then had to make a pattern for the wonderful inlaid border. The table stands on a solid walnut quadruple pedestal base, each cabriole leg with fine carving to the knees comes off the turned bulbous column. Loo was an extremely popular Victorian parlour game that the middle and upper classes played on such tables. As guests and the extended family would be invited to join the owners for a game it became important to show how successful the owners were and so this table was a 'No expense spared' example. Imagine how wonderful this will look in a dining room or as a magnificent table for an entrance hall. 152cms long 60ins 113.5cms deep 43 3/4ins 73cms high 28 1/2ins All Measurements are approximate, whilst we take care in measuring there may at times be a very slight difference.
