Description

Having been just lightly cleaned this exceptional copper cauldron carries good patina & a long history, last used in the early 1960's as a cream scalding pan on a West Country Farm. Strong wrought iron swing handle on iron brackets fitted to the pan with massive original copper rivets, the copper pan itself of great character showing all the ravages of its time & use. Very decorative with much charm & potential for numerous uses/locations. Internal rim size 30cm x 27.5cm & 26cm height to rim. Overall height to include upright Iron handle 47cm and 33cm height to top of copper pan lid. Width overall 45 cm & 35 cm depth.
