Description

Alfred Seifert Czech, (1850-1901) Portrait of a Young Woman with a Pearl Necklace & Rose Oil on panel, signed Image size: 15.5 inches x 12 inches Size including frame: 23 inches x 19.5 inches A lovely portrait painting by Alfred Seifert of a young woman wearing a pearl necklace. The subject is depicted with her hair down and dressed in a pink robe with puffed sleeves. She is posed facing the viewer with her head turned slightly down to the side and holds a pink rose over her heart. In portraits, pearls symbolise purity whilst roses represent youth and beauty. The sitter bears a resemblance to another model seen in some of the artists other portraits. Alfred Seifert was born in Praskolesy, Bohemia (present day Czech Republic) on 6 September, 1850. Shortly after his birth, the family moved to nearby Horovice where he grew up. His talent for art became apparent whilst recuperating from a serious illness as a child. After his recovery, he was tutored by Karel Würbs the inspector of Estates Gallery at Prague Castle and the landscape artist Alois Kirnig (1840-1911). In 1869, he was admitted into Academy of Fine Arts in Munich where he studied under Michael Echter (1812-18...
