Description

This is a pair of George V hallmarked sterling silver vases. They were assayed in Birmingham in 1913. The hallmarks are a bit rubbed but they might have been made by Hall & Fitzgerald. They are of waisted form, with an undulating rim. They are engine turned to the body with circular bands, and have vacant shield shaped cartouches surrounded by floral designs. They are weighted to the base. Both vases have a few small dents. They both seem to have some type of corrosion to the surface of the silver down one side. Combined their gross weight including the weighted bases is 347g / 11.17 oz t.
