Description

We are delighted to offer this 5-piece solid silver tea/coffee service made by George Fox in 1865. The set consists of a kettle, teapot, sugar bowl, creamer and a coffee pot - please note, the maker for the coffee pot is separate (Elkington & Co) though the design is visually identical and matching. The set presents a consistent elegant design throughout all pieces featuring a high polish, mirror-like finish on the exterior body with fine and intricate engravings around the top band. From the waist downwards, all pieces feature a tightly gadrooned motif, terminating at a circular raised base. Additional minimalistic embellishments such as the beaded border on the "shoulder" of the teapot and the flared top band of the creamer and sugar bowl further highlight the intricacy of craftsmanship present on this set. From above, the cast acanthus finials of all three pots and the surrounding borders provide an excellent symmetric and conforming aesthetic design. Interior-wise, the teapot, coffee pot and kettle remain clean and leak-free. The sugar bowl and milk pitcher feature a fully gilt interior that magnificently contrasts the monochromatic silver exterior. In ha...
