Description

This is an American Art Nouveau perfume or scent bottle, made circa 1900. It is hand blown from green glass and encased in sterling silver in a geometric web design, with an abstract flowing panel to the centre of the bottle. There are some small chips to the bottom of the stopper. Unfortunately there is damage to the glass on the neck of the bottle. The silver overlay is keeping it in position but if you look carefully you can see that it is cracked inside.
