Description

This is an antique wing-back arm chair. An English, fireside or lounge seat, dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910. An inviting chair, seeks reupholstering to shine Displays an authentic aged patina - signs of wear and small losses present The existing later upholstery in fine golden tones Solid oak frame shows fine grain interest and dark caramel hues Of generous proportion, pleasingly heavy and dependable fortitude Strong wing-back profile for ideal fireside placement Tall back affords a comfortable seating position Traditionally sprung, deep cushioned seat Further relaxation provided by the broad, rolled arms Woven silk-cotton upholstery with large foliate pattern, bordered with press-stud trim Obvious tear to fabric of the seat as per the images. Remainder of textile in good order - save for marks consistent with use Scroll carvings decorate the transition from seat base to arms - one loss to right-hand arm Scallop shell motif to the knees decorate the lower rail Raised upon superb ball and claw feet to the front with gently splayed square rear feet This is a fascinating antique wing-back arm chair, whose existing appearance offers itself to reupholstering, w...
