Description

This is a stunning Victorian Lady's 9ct Rose Gold Expandable Bracelet, which is set on alternate links with Eight Turquoise Cabochons & Eight Seed Pearls (Turquoise was one of the Victorians favourite gemstones and was believed to have a number of properties i.e. If given a Turquoise by a loving friend, that stone would protect the wearer from negative energy and bring good fortune. Typical of the period this a fine quality Bracelet, which weighs 15 grams exactly, is stamped '9' on the reverse side, confirming that the bracelet is made from solid 9ct Rose Gold (please see the detailed close-up photographs provided, which form an integral part of the item's description) . Overall the Bracelet is in great condition. There is a slight colour variation in some of the Turquoise gemstones, however, a colour variation in antique Turquoise is natural as the gem typically changes colour as it ages. a stunning and very wearable Victorian Bracelet. This wonderful Victorian Bracelet, which is approx' 15mm wide when closed and approx' 12mm wide when worn is not cumbersome and very comfortable to wear.

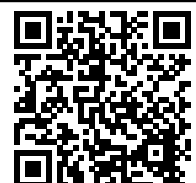

Needless to say, it looks fabulous on the wrist and it is sure to attract many adm...
