Description

This unusual REGENCY FOLK ART WATERCOLOUR PORTRAIT is entitled COWBIT BUTCHER to the top right corner. A portly, well-dressed gentleman is pointing to, what looks to be, a fine display of Ribs of Beef with two cuts of meat hanging from butcher's hooks above. COWBIT would seem to refer to a small village in Lincolnshire, 3 miles South of Spalding. The portrait dates from circa 1830 and the Lincolnshire County Council Archives make reference to two Butchers at Cowbit around that time - Stephen Markillie Smith and John Low Ranby. The portrait is unframed. Height: 9.25 inches (23 cm) Width: 8 inches (20 cm) Delivery within the UK is included. We are happy to quote for Overseas Shipping on request.
