Description

A pair of antique George V sterling silver toast racks which are rectangular shape in design with plain arched divisions to house the toast, a central handle for carrying purposes and each resting on four claw feet. They have been made to a high standard, as one would expect from Asprey, and they each fit neatly on a silver tray which is practical for catching any residue crumbs. They would look elegant displayed at either end of the breakfast table. One toast rack is dated for 1910 and the other is dated for 1911 but both made by Asprey & Co. Ltd. They were hallmarked in London for 1910/1911 by Asprey & Co. Ltd. and they weigh 11.8 troy ounces (367 grams). Complimentary worldwide postage with insurance is included within the price of these toast racks.
