Description

This beautiful silver bound Malacca cane with an Antler handle that unscrews to reveal a ceremonial Masonic sword in a leather scabbard is in exceptionally good condition. The silver collar is hallmarked for Henry Howell & Co, Cane and Stick Makers of Old Street, London EC in 1897 and engraved for the owner "George E Robinson, Baildon". The cane has been strengthened with silver bands at the top and ends in a brass ferrule with an original rubber end. George Edward Robinson 1865-1933 was a JP and Chairman of Baildon Urban District Council between 1898 and 1909, he lived at "Ingfield" Baildon. He was also a senior Mason. The masonic sword and scabbard are in excellent condition with etched symbols on the sword of Compass, Ruler, Dividers, Christian Cross, Maltese Cross and the letters "AR". The whole creation is exquisitely well made and in this condition, very rare.
