Description

This is a beautiful antique large Italian Capodimonte porcelain table casket, 1880 in date. It features a gladiatorial scene with the Emperor and Empress on the lid, the sides are lavishly decorated with playful putti and hunting scenes, and it has an attractive omolu border. The scenes are moulded in relief and decorated in polychrome enamels. It is a superb porcelain casket ideal for your treasured items. Capodimonte porcelain was made in direct emulation of Meissen porcelain. Capodimonte is famous for its moulded figurines and its decorative modelled flowers applied to cups and vases. The Capodimonte porcelain tradition endured thanks to the creativity of the Neapolitan artists. During the second half of the 19th century, the first handicraft factories were created. They were all family managed. In 1867, Alfonso Majello, knighted "Cavaliere del L...
