Description

A Fine Edwardian Burr Walnut Marquetry Cabinet. The upper tier supported by slender turned columns with bevelled mirror running its width. The door with mirrored upper section and inset marquetry of an urn with swags and tails decoration. The lower door panel with rectangle stringing. The interior holds five shelves. The whole stands on a sweet little plinth base. The door has a lock and key. A really good example of cabinet making, using only the finest veneers and detail. Even the enclosed shelves have been veneered and all the horizontal lines have been chamfered. The cabinet has a wonderful colour and patina that you would expect from a piece over 100 years old. A good looking and extremely functional piece of furniture with multiple uses.
