Bessie Bamber lived and worked in Liverpool, and specialised in painting cats and kittens. She normally signed her paintings with a monogram, and often painted on ivory, glass and wood panel. Bamber's style is detailed and her pictures are always carefully wrought. She was a clever creator of composition, her kittens are never mere portraits, but usually illustrated playing and surrounded by objects such as cotton reels, baskets, etc. Bessie Bamber painted at around the turn of the century - her pictures have always attracted a wide following and are sought after by collectors today..
