Description

When a piece of fine furniture, such as this long rosewood cabriole legged stool (Circa 1860), is still in excellent original condition after 160 years of use, you know it was crafted with skill and care. Previous owners have obviously continued to care for this lovely stool as there are no repairs to its finely constructed frame. Now sensitively restored and upholstered in a fine contemporary fabric, it is ready to be used and enjoyed once more. It will enhance a contemporary or period interior - whether placed at the end of a bed, used as a window or hall seat.
