Description

A lovely antique mahogany side table on straight tapering legs dating from the early 19th Century. Nice proportions with a beautiful rich patina and a single long drawer with brass swan neck handles. Perfect as a side table or a small writing desk. The handles have been changed at some point and there has been an old repair to a break on one leg but the table is strong and sturdy and displays well. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask. Nationwide delivery available through our network of reliable couriers.
