Description

A charming small antique George III canterbury in mahogany dating from circa 1800. Of open slatted form with turned uprights topped with finials. It features a carry handle to the central divider and the two dividers either side can be removed for extra space. There is a single oak lined drawer to the front with turned wooden handles. A really attractive good quality piece and a small useful size; it would make a wonderful newspaper stand or magazine rack. Construction/Wood: Mahogany Condition Report: Solid and sturdy. There are a number of old holes filled with wax to the top and bottom corner joints at each side (see photos). Would have originally stood on casters. Dimensions: Width: 46cm Depth: 35cm Height: 46cm Drawer Internal: 22cm Deep x 42cm Wide x 7cm High
