Mid 18th century George 3rd mahogany linen press in original condition. The base section with 2 over 2 drawer configuration standing on its bold original bracket feet. The drawers have cock beaded edge are all oak lined inside with original brass locks and original brass swan neck handles. The top section has fielded and cross banded panels to the doors with "Greek Key" decoration to the cornice. The linen press has all its original sliding trays inside. The top doors have their original brass bolts and original brass lock with working key. It does come in two pieces for transportation. The linen press is basically in pretty good condition, it does require minor restoration mainly to cock beading and I think it may have been re-polished in the 19th century.
