Description

An exceptional three-door walnut and bronze French Art Deco buffet / sideboard designed and signed by Jules Leleu (1883-1961). French - Paris c.1940 Extremely well constructed, as one would expect, from solid oak, veneered in European straight grain walnut having a stepped top outlined by a subtle bronze trim, the three doors adorned with lozenge geometric walnut parquetry, gilt-bronze naturalistic mounts and retaining the original bronze key. Each door opens revealing an interior with an adjustable highly figured walnut shelf with its edge veneered in walnut, the central door also revealing two fully fitted walnut drawers with brass knobs. The right-hand door bearing the original ivorine plaque signed by Jules Leleu himself. With conforming gilt-bronze trim to the apron with a small central scallop, the entire piece resting on sabre legs terminating in gilt-bronze feet. In excellent condition having gained a wonderful colour, an extremely rare piece signed by one of the key designers in starting off the Art Deco movement, Jules Leleu. About Jules Leleu This piece has particularly impressive provenance as it is signed by its designer, Jules Leleu who was of the on...
