Description

Offered for your consideration is this extremely good quality Art Deco German Alarm travel clock with a superb movement in excellent condition working order alarm working as well having been recently and professionally serviced by an horologist. We believe the clock is most likely by Junghans but we can only attribute it as it's not marked. The curved round shouldered clock case is in highly polished chrome offering an almost mirror finish with raised numerals in a gold tone. Comes with it's original silk lined leather case. This is a really classy clock, deceptively heavy for it's size and would of been expensive to purchase in it's day. No makers mark but DPRA a to the back. The "DRP" refers to a German patent, and is usually followed by a patent number. Here "DRPa," the "a" an abbreviation for "angemeldet," meaning "applied for." FREE UK DELIVERY. Case size:110mm x 80mm x 45mm .
